Construction

Construction refers to the construction of various types of buildings and ancillary facilities as well as the installation of related lines, pipes and equipment. Corporate clients require legal services in connection with their construction, alteration, expansion, fit-out and relocation projects.

JunHe has extensive experience in providing construction legal advice and possesses outstanding legal service skills, excellent working capabilities and abundant industry expertise. Our lawyers can work in both Chinese and English and communicate effectively with domestic and overseas clients.

JunHe provides clients in construction projects with the following services:

- Providing legal advice. Provide legal advice and recommendations for the acquisition of land plots and obtaining governmental approvals in connection with construction projects, and assist clients in determining the contracting structure of their construction projects;
- Document drafting and reviewing. Draft, review and revise agreements and other documents, including the agreements and tendering documents relating to survey, design, procurement, construction, project supervision, project management, and construction cost consulting service, and participate in negotiations;
- Risk control. Assist clients with legal issues arising in the course of implementing their construction projects;
- Dispute resolution. Assist clients in resolving their disputes and represent clients in arbitration and litigation proceedings.

Representative Projects

Construction of a New Energy Vehicle Manufacturing Plant

From 2021 – 2023, a well-known automobile company built a new energy vehicle manufacturing plant. This involved a total investment of around RMB 30 billion (including an investment of more than RMB 4 billion in the related construction project) and was built on a land plot of about 1.5 million square meters. JunHe advised the client (as the project owner) from the project initiation stage and assisted the client in signing an investment agreement with the local government. JunHe assisted the client in obtaining the related land use rights, designed and determined the contracting structure, reviewed the tendering documents, and drafted, revised and finalized the EPC contract. JunHe also assisted in drafting the project supervision contract, the project management contract and other relevant contract documents and provided legal advice at the construction stage.

JunHe, founded in Beijing in 1989, is one of the first private partnership law firms in China. Since its establishment, JunHe has grown to be a large and recognized Chinese law firm. The firm has fifteen offices around the world and a team comprised of more than a thousand professionals.

One notes: "They understand the client's needs and are clear in their advice. The advice is given after careful thought on different aspects. They take into account commercial elements and provide practical advice."
