Professional Experience

Mr. Qing Di is based in JunHe's Shanghai office and focuses on dispute resolution including civil and commercial litigation and arbitration, competition law and compliance.

Mr. Di has a wealth of experience representing clients in complex cases at various arbitration institutions such as CIETAC, SHIAC and SCIA. He has also represented clients before many PRC courts at all levels (including the Supreme People's Court), handling commercial disputes in investment and financing transactions, corporate control, international sales of goods, product distribution and equity incentives. These have been in areas such as pharmaceuticals and medical treatment, high-end manufacturing, commercial real estate and aviation.

Mr. Di specializes in dispute resolution involving foreign elements. He advises a host of multinational companies in their daily operations in China, including providing legal advice regarding advertising, food safety and dispute resolution and has represented clients in applying for recognition and enforcement of foreign arbitral awards and foreign court judgments in China, including the first case of successful property preservation during the cross-border enforcement review stage. Mr. Di assisted quite a few state-owned/private enterprises to make claims for their rights and interests in dispute resolution procedures in different jurisdictions. A cross-border dispute case involving Africa and Middle East that was handled by him as the leading attorney was selected twice as a typical case of "The Belt and Road" legal service by the "Legal Daily".

From 2018 to 2019, Mr. Di worked as a visiting attorney in the litigation department of Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison LLP (New York office). He is also an external mentor for Master of Laws students of East China University of Political Science.

Mr. Di was ranked as one of the Recommended Lawyers in the Dispute Resolution sector in the Legal 500 Asia Pacific and was honored by Who's Who Legal as a leading PRC business lawyer (arbitration). He was recognized as a Rising Star in Chinese legal practice by China Business Law Journal and a Future Star in dispute resolution in China by Benchmark Litigation.
