Intellectual Property

JunHe is one of the earliest law firms in China to provide legal services in respect to intellectual property (IP). With its all-around and one-stop professional IP-related legal services, JunHe can provide strong support for its clients to maximize the commercial value of their brands, works and patented technologies. Our IP team not only provides high-quality professional IP-related legal services to domestic and foreign companies independently, but it can also provide support for legal matters in IP and related fields encountered by other teams at JunHe.

Our Team

Based in our Shanghai, Beijing, Guangzhou and Silicon Valley offices, JunHe's IP team has more than 80 partners, counsel, IP lawyers and patent agents, all of whom have graduated from well-known domestic and foreign law schools. They are familiar with IP legal practice in China, the United States, Japan, South Korea, Europe and other countries, and are proficient in Chinese, English, Japanese, German, Korean and other languages. Many of our lawyers have worked in the China National Intellectual Property Administration as well as the People's courts and IP courts at various levels. Our IP team has great expertise and abundant practical experience in the field of IP law and can provide clients with IP-related professional legal services and strategic planning.

Due to their outstanding performance and good reputation among their clients, JunHe's IP team and partners have been consistently and widely recognized by world-renowned commercial lawyer rating agencies and have been listed by Chambers Asia Pacific, Asia Pacific Legal 500, Asian Legal Business (ALB), World Trademark Review, Managing Intellectual Property (MIP), Intellectual Asset Management (IAM), Benchmark Litigation China and Asialaw Profiles as a "Leading Firm" and as "Recommended" IP lawyers.

Core Areas of Practice

JunHe provides a full spectrum of IP-related legal services, covering trademarks, patents, copyright, unfair competition, domain names, customs protection, and other IP-related legal matters. We serve clients in fields such as the Internet, computers, biotechnology, medical and pharmaceuticals, energy, automobiles, food, cosmetics and luxury goods. We also have experience in industries such as apparel, material science, chemistry, clean technology, nanotechnology, communications, electronics, semiconductors, automation, e-commerce, media and entertainment, hospitality and education.

Domestic and foreign IP applications and administrative proceedings: JunHe provides domestic and foreign clients with legal services in connection with the confirmation of rights, such as trademarks, copyright and patent applications, and the related administrative proceedings in China, as well as legal services in connection with overseas IP inquiries, monitoring and registration.

JunHe, founded in Beijing in 1989, is one of the first private partnership law firms in China. Since its establishment, JunHe has grown to be a large and recognized Chinese law firm. The firm has fourteen offices around the world and a team comprised of more than a thousand professionals.

JunHe's intellectual property team is a very experienced professional team that is good at analysing the essence of law and can propose effective and feasible solutions.
