Professional Experience

Diligent, professional, pragmatic, reliable, and possessing a strong business acumen, these are the impressions that Mr. Sun leaves on his clients. In 2006, Sun joined JunHe, transitioning from a judicial role to the field of foreign-related legal services. Over the past eighteen years, he has handled numerous corporate mergers and acquisitions, foreign investment, and private equity projects. For instance, he represented Tencent in its strategic investment in Pinduoduo; represented Wolong Group in establishing a global strategic joint venture for automotive motors with Germany's ZF Group; and represented Wagas in receiving strategic investment from Advent. Additionally, in response to changes in Chinese law and market environment, Sun has conducted a series of innovative studies in the field of foreign non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and provided professional legal services to dozens of internationally renowned NGOs. For example, he assisted the Institute of Management Accountants in obtaining the first NGO registration certificate in China's accounting industry and helped the Marriott Family Foundation become the first cultural and tourism NGO to establish a presence in Shanghai.

Mr. Sun's legal career is both extensive and highly esteemed. He has held positions as an official in foreign-related legal affairs within Shanghai's municipal government and served as the General Counsel for BlueScope China. Currently, he holds several prestigious roles, including Deputy Director of the Xuhui Lawyers Working Committee, part-time master's tutor at East China University of Political Science and Law, practical tutor at Fudan University Law School, public welfare mentor at Shanghai University of Political Science and Law, and member of the Mergers and Acquisitions Business Research Committee of the Shanghai Bar Association. Mr. Sun has consistently been recognized as a leading lawyer by prominent legal media and institutions, such as Chambers Global, Chambers Asia-Pacific, The Legal 500, China Business Law Journal, Asian Legal Business, the China Legal Education and Career Seminar Series (CLECSS), and the Shanghai Bar Association.
