Environmental, Social and Governance

JunHe is a pioneer in environmental, social and governance (ESG) legal practice and has one of the largest environmental and work safety (EHS) legal teams in China. They can act independently or in collaboration with third party intermediaries to conduct sustainably-oriented, customized EHS compliance evaluation for clients in various industries. The ESG team conducts ESG due diligence investigation in supply chain management and M&As, and drafts ESG reports for corporate clients or third-party intermediaries. JunHe relies on different legal and compliance teams in multiple areas such as ESG, EHS, anti-trust, labor law, intellectual property, trade and data, finance and tax, commercial and criminal compliance. We carry out ESG-related legal and compliance audits for clients in their day-to-day operations, draft and review ESG clauses in contracts, build and enhance ESG compliance systems for investors and enterprises, identify ESG disclosure requirements, and provide services related to green financing, ESG training and other full-life cycle services. JunHe's ESG and EHS teams serve a broad range of clients including PE/VC funds, financial institutions and companies in industries such as chemicals, materials, medical, aircraft, automobile, semi-conductors, engineering technology and testing, food and consumption.

JunHe maintains close working relationships with the top law firms around the world, including Latham & Watkins' global environmental practice group. They regularly collaborate with Latham & Watkins, the Environmental Law Institute and the Policy Research Center for Environment and Economy under the Ministry of Ecology and Environment of China in an initiative for the establishment of the China International Business Dialogue on Environmental Governance (CIBDEG) and the organization of other roundtables and activities. In 2019, CIBDEG won the "Innovation in Collaboration" award from the Financial Times Innovative Lawyers.

JunHe, founded in Beijing in 1989, is one of the first private partnership law firms in China. Since its establishment, JunHe has grown to be a large and recognized Chinese law firm. The firm has fourteen offices around the world and a team comprised of more than a thousand professionals.

JunHe's ESG legal services include:

- System building for fundraising, investment, the management of and withdrawal from funds including the drafting and reviewing of bylaws, processes and tool documents

Their (JunHe's) lawyers are professional, smart and very responsive.
